No Matter What

From the University of Pennsylvania Law School solve this first year law student problem:

4

2

No Matter What

How many of you came up with the answer of 2, 6, or 8?

How do we know if we have the right answer? What does this tell us?

When a problem is not defined we tend to get all kinds of answers, of which some may not be correct.

No Matter What

Seek God first, then go to man as directed, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. -Jesus

No Matter What

The Dean of Columbia University once declared to a group of graduates: Never waste your time on solutions or worry until you actually find out what the problem is. Half of the difficulties in the world are caused by worry...

No Matter What

...And all the worry in the world is caused by people trying to make decisions before they have sufficient knowledge; before they have all the information needed to find a solution.

No Matter What

No matter what the problem may be, God will provide you with the guidance to solve it. When you turn the process of intuitive instruction over to God you will be given all the steps you need to take care of it and it won't seem so daunting anymore.

-Myrtle Fillmore

No Matter What

Charles Fillmore once said, We must have a consciousness that dwells on the solution. We must keep the high watch and not immerse ourselves needlessly in the dwelling on the hopelessness of the difficulty.

No Matter What

God grant me the serenity
to accept the things I cannot change;
courage to change the things I can;
and wisdom to know the difference.

Problems arise in our lives based on four basic wants, writes Hale Dwoskin in book The Sedona Method.

No Matter What

- Wanting to Control.
- Wanting Approval.
- Wanting Security.
- Wanting to Separate.

No Matter What

Wanting to Control.

It shows up as resistance, manipulation, being pushy, trying to fix or force things to happen, wanting it our way, wanting to be right, wanting to be on top...

It's okay to take appropriate action to change things. The problem is not getting stuck in trying to control the change.

No Matter What

Wanting Approval.

There is nothing wrong in wanting approval. The problems are created when it shows up as wanting acceptance, admiration, being noticed, being stroked, being nurtured, being catered to, and saying yes when you want to say no.

No Matter What

Wanting Security.

This want creates just the opposite in our lives by showing up as feeling threatened, uneasy, in danger, on guard, we are walking through a minefield, on a deep level we see others as an enemy, and walking around waiting for the next disaster to happen, hoping that it doesn't.

No Matter What

Wanting to Separate.

This want shows up in our lives as wanting to be alone, rejecting others, looking down on others, one-upmanship, detaching, disassociating, or disconnecting from others. The problems created here are wanting to be different, better, and special than anyone else.

No Matter What

No matter what the circumstance, how difficult, how impossible you feel it may be, God will see you through. If life is demanding strength that you think you do not have, wisdom you think you do not possess, tact, patience, forgiveness, love or peace that you feel are foreign to you...

No Matter What

God will see you through with all the strength, all the peace, and all the needed supply that you could possibly want.
Affirm for yourself: No matter what, there is a solution to this problem and God will see me through.
